Wedmarkt: 1.20 Out The Hat, 2.50 Blackrod, 4.00 Mcmanaman (Ire), 8.00 Millions, 16.00 Iris Dancer, 66.00 Havana Party

BLACKROD was second on debut behind a potentially smart type at Newcastle earlier this month and could put that experience to good use on turf debut for Michael Dods. The Mayson colt wasn't without market support on that occasion, and looks to have been located a suitable opening here. Out The Hat was successful here at the second time of asking and ran a blinder when third in a valuable sales race at York behind Happy Romance a month ago. Mcmanaman can prove best of the remainder.

Wedmarkt: 3.50 Josiebond, 5.00 Harry'S Ridge (Ire), 5.00 Carlovian, 8.00 Bevsboy (Ire), 8.00 Red Bravo (Ire), 10.00 Someone Exciting, 10.00 Lucky Beggar (Ire), 12.00 Echo Of Lightning, 14.00 Jessie Allan (Ire), 14.00 Rockley Point, 25.00 Laoise (Usa), 33.00 Picks Pinta, 33.00 Jordan'S Chris (Ire), 50.00 Indiaro

Bevsboy outran 40-1 odds to finish second at Catterick earlier this month, but the six-year-old usually reserves his best efforts for that venue and might not be able to confirm that running here. Harry's Ridge is consistent but was presented with a fine opening at Leicester last month and couldn't make it count, so the vote goes to recent Musselburgh scorer JOSIEBOND. Off the mark at the 17th attempt there, a 7lb rise seems fair and this doesn't look a particularly strong contest.

WADE'S MAGIC has looked on good terms with himself in recent weeks and could add to his career tally after a strong success at Catterick earlier this month. Tim Easterby's charge has recent form figures of 21221 in his last five starts, and a 6lb rise might not be enough to halt that progress. Economic Crisis is showing no sign of slowing down despite being an 11-year-old and was successful at Musselburgh just nine days ago, while recent course runner-up Quannah makes some appeal now dropped to the minimum trip.

Wedmarkt: 4.00 Nietzsche, 5.50 Donnachies Girl (Ire), 7.00 Flood Defence (Ire), 8.00 Ascot Day (Fr), 8.00 Akamanto (Ire), 10.00 Daawy (Ire), 10.00 Dance King, 10.00 Stonific (Ire), 12.00 Hillgrove Angel (Ire), 12.00 Zabeel Star (Ire), 14.00 Royal Cosmic, 20.00 Dragons Voice

AKAMANTO bounced back to form when only finding one too good at Musselburgh recently and has to be of serious interest now dropping in distance. Likely to be ridden prominently again by Paddy Mathers off an unchanged mark, the six-year-old appeals more than Daawy, who drops in class/trip after shaping with promise when fourth at Chester last time out. Dance King was disappointing at Catterick a fortnight ago but should find this sort of test more suitable.

Talk Now's winning run came to an end at Ayr last month and perhaps the assessor has caught up with her now. Dragons Will Rise was successful on the all-weather in March but hasn't been witnessed on the track since, and this could be fought out between the Mike Smith-trained duo of Rosemay and FLYING MOON. The latter was the one to take from the race when second at Ayr last week and it is no surprise to see the four-year-old turned out quickly off an unchanged mark.

DESTINYS ROCK suffered a heartbreaking close defeat at Windsor last month when beaten a short head and could go one better here under Ben Sanderson. The five-year-old has a 2lb rise to contend with, but she was well clear of the third on that latest showing and could benefit from another aggressive ride. Zealous put in his best effort for some time when third at Haydock recently, while My Ukulele also occupied that position at Ayr on Friday.

Hlaitan failed to run his race at Bath last month despite being sent off at 2-1 and wears a visor for the first time now, while Breguet Boy made a pleasing return to turf when fourth at Haydock earlier this month and does seem to go well at this time of year. CRUISING might not be the best handicapped horse in the field, but he has shaped with promise the last twice in third at Newmarket and Musselburgh and the booking of Kevin Stott suggests that connections mean business.
